BE HONEST

We are not all wise but we can try to be honest.

The repealist is not entirely honest but some of them are trying to be.

Few men are foolish enough to think that more liquor will be sold in dives and speakeasies—in back rooms and cellars—that would be sold in the attractive saloon.

With repeal comes the saloon because money and politics will call it back.

The saloon is a high pressure salesman of intoxicating liquors and is run for profit.

The evil of saloons is in what it sells. The more intoxicants men drink the worse they are.

No town, state, or nation ever made a profit—a net profit—from the degradation of its citizens.

The Southern states—in spite of the efforts of Mr. Farley and the urge of political leaders—have refused to give up their constitutional prohibition. They know that when they went dry they became prosperous.

One Southerner said, "If those fool Yankees want to vote wet we don't care. All the more business coming South."

Mr. Roosevelt said that we are in an emergency greater than the World War. Pres. Wilson closed the saloons because of world war, as an emergency measure. Every politician knows what makes his work hard—its intoxicants. The emergency will not be helped by drunkenness.

For the repealist to take other grounds than—we want a drink, or—we believe there is more money to be gotten by repeal—is either silly or dishonest.

As far as liquor for medicants or manufacture is concerned, under the present constitution these needs can be met. Maine had state agencies under the present constitution and while these met all needs they gave no profit to rumsellers or help to politicians.—so—

Be honest.

People drink intoxicants not for the taste but for the effect—"the fuddle."

Do you want your boy drunk—your husband—your wife—your daughter. Your hired man or woman.

Do you want more drunken drivers? More accidents? Drunken driving and accidents have increased at least 50% since beer came. Do you want more accidents?

A three-year-old child was playing on its own lawn and a car driven by a man who had been drinking left the road and killed him.

A man standing by his own door was killed by a woman driver who lost control and went across the gutter and sidewalk and killed the man. She had been drinking.

For safety sake—For decency's sake—vote NO on repeal.

Be honest.

Ed Howe, who wrote many hundreds of columns of newspaper copy never said a truer thing than his aphorism, "Work hard and behave."

There are said to be 24,500 Communist in the United States, which has a total population of 120,000,000.
In Russia there are only 50,000 members of the Communist party, and they control 180,000,000 people.

One mend-fault is worth two find-faults; but one find-fault is better than two make-faults.—Benjamin Franklin.

John W. Davis, the distinguished lawyer who was Democratic candidate for President in 1924, recently gave an excellent example of the plight of the taxpayer when it comes to fighting the growth of bureaucracy. There are, at the latest estimate, some 44,000 federal employees, whose salaries are paid through taxation. Yet, as Mr.
Davis pointed out, no person in the country has ever had an opportunity to vote for more than five of these. The only national officials whose names reach a ballot are the president, vice-president, two senators and one representative, and this list, so far as practical considerations are concerned, could be reduced to four, inasmuch as the vice-president's name is coupled with the president's, and he wins or loses in company with his chief.

The hundreds of thousands of civil servants who came to the positions they hold without the expressed wish of the electorate, do much to determine our destinies.
They are instrumental in making laws, in prohibiting rights, in raising taxes. The same thing is true to a somewhat lesser degree, in other units of government besides the federal. The nation is today staggering under a vastly expensive army of bureaucrats which it never asked for.

It is of course impossible to vote for every government worker. But on next Monday we have our opportunity to choose men for posts of responsibility and honor, and also to express our choice on three questions given the citizens of the State for their decision. Much has been said and written for and by the candidates of both parties, but comparatively little attention has been given the questions submitted. It is, perhaps more than ever, a serious duty to give careful consideration to the election next Monday. If we fail to do this—we should not find fault with the decision of those who do vote.

He Knows the Route by Heart

THE STORY OF AMOS LUND
BY D. S. BROOKS

Chapter I

Amos said to me, one day, many years ago, "If you ever write me up in the magazines, call my name Amos Lund. Do not reveal my real name, unless I give you permission.
I get publicity enough as it is. It would be real sport to read about myself under a different name." I agreed—so we shook hands on it as the best of friends. "I may add, he has adopted a title for me. He never asked me whether I liked it, but upon one of his summer visits into the White Mountains of New Hampshire, he addressed me as "Squire." That was after I was commissioned by Governor Keyes as Justice of the Peace.

I couldn't tell you all of his good points, if I should talk all day. A finer character would be hard to find. The time we were together as boys, we never quarrelled. Our thoughts ran much alike in those days. I want to tell you in some succeeding chapter about our games and plans. Years have rolled by and Father Time has touched our hair with gray. But we still are boys, even if a little past the prime of life. He is vigorous in health and "going strong." Since I moved into Bethel he has been holding the office of Congressman.
His election went over the top in a Western state where he has held residence for nearly thirty years.
Amos will read this, so I won't reveal at this writing, whether he is Republican or Democrat, but he almost worships Franklin D. Roosevelt. He thinks F. D. R. has the greatest set of brains in the country. Says he is masterful in every undertaking. Amos is chairman of a certain committee. And necessity has called the two men into conference on several occasions. Mr. Congressman Lund declares that the President has a personality that no man can fully describe. Once met, one can never forget that noble looking face and his forceful speech. Amos will shortly write me more about the nature of these personal interviews. And I'll pass it on to you.

I didn't mean to "swing off" in this first chapter, in speaking of anything but my friend, Amos. I want to introduce him to you, for I think he will be president some day. He is a hero! I could tell you of many of his struggles and victories and keep you spell-bound with interest and laughter for a whole day, and then some. He is no fiction character, but a real, red-blooded, American with fighting blood. I hope he finds time next year to visit Bethel; and then I'll invite you to give him a chance to speak in Odeon Hall.
Instantly his manner and words will claim your closest attention.
It is not that he is so wonderfully eloquent, but he has something to say. You can't get mad at him when his ideas cross yours. He is perfectly easy and at home on the platform; his arguments are logical; and in his winning way he drives the nail squarely on the head.

He laughed when I wrote him I lived on an old back road that was so seldom visited by the road machine that we felt it would be more comfortable to ride in an aero-plane, if we owned one. He is a natural cartoonist, and when he wrote back, he inclosed a likeness of himself reading my letter. For once, I felt disappointed in my old friend. I thought he would sympathize with me, but he wrote, "You have no business to settle there." Now I shall ask him for an explanation in my next letter.

Well, Amos is making speeches from a platform built onto his "flivver"—touring his state. The people of his party have nominated him for governor; and if I can read correctly between the lines, I would say he is in a hot contest with a powerful opponent. He has two major engagements daily, and speaks over the radio, evenings, when it can be so arranged; but he will pull up his car, anywhere, enroute, and talk to a bunch of men and women for five or ten minutes wherever he finds them.

If you want to hear more of this stuff, say so! And if Editor Brown is willing to give me a few inches of space each week, for a time, I will be pleased to continue this story of AMOS LUND.

OH, THE PLEASANT DAYS OF OLD!

Frances Browne

Oh, the pleasant days of old, which so often people praise!
True, they wanted all the luxuries that grace our modern days; Bare floors were strewn with rushes, the walls let in the cold; Oh, how they must have shivered in those pleasant days of old!

Oh, those ancient lords of old, how magnificent they were!
They threw down and imprisoned kings—to thwart them who might dare;
They ruled their serfs right sternly; they took from Jews their gold; Above both law and equity were those great lords of old.

Oh, the gallant knights of old, for their valor so renowned!
With sword and lance and armor strong they scoured the country round;
And whenever aught to tempt them they met by wood or wold, By right of sword they seized the prize,—those gallant knights of old

Oh, the gentle dames of old! who quite free from fear or pain, Could gaze on joust and tournament, and see their champion slain;
They lived on good beefsteaks and ale, which made them strong and bold,— Oh, more like men than women were those gentle dames of old!

Oh, those mighty towers of old! with their turrets, moat, and keep,
Their battlements and bastions, their dungeons dark and deep.
Full many a baron held his court within the castle hold, And many a captive languished there, in those strong towers of old.

Oh, the troubadours of old! with their gentle minstrelsie Of hope and joy, or deep despair, whichever their lot might be;
For years they served their ladye-love, ere they their passions told, Oh, wondrous patience must have had those troubadours of old!

Oh, those blessed times of old, with their chivalry and state!
I love to read their chronicles, which such brave deeds relate; I love to sing their ancient rhymes, to hear their legends told,— But, Heaven be thanked! I live not in those blessed times of old!

Meaning of Name "Caesar"

Although the most widely accepted meaning of the name "Caesar" is "hairy," this name also is said to have as its root the word caes(to cut), and also caesius (supposedly naturally blue), according to Chicago Tribune. It also has been stated that the Moorish word for elephant was its origin. It was however, borne by the emperors Rome as a title, when their empire were far flung and their power immense. The word kaiser is believed to have derived from the title, in the days when German rulers took their authority from Rome.
There is argument that czar, formerly spelled tsar, evolved from the same source.

Great Apes Pair for Life

The great apes have a strong family sense. This is particularly true of the gorilla and the chimpanzee.
In the African bush gorillas live in hordes that travel together, the hordes being made up of monogam-ous pairs and their children. A gorilla pair mates for life, and after there will be several children of different ages in a family at the same time, explains an explorer.
This stair-step arrangement of children is educationally advantageous for the youngsters learn from the older children. Many of the lower species of monkeys live polygamous-ly—the baboon, for example, supports a large harem—but practically all monkeys are zealous, and are indeed jealous, in attendance on the solitude for their offspring.

The "Silver Spoon" Saying

Everybody has heard the saying, "he was born with a silver spoon in the mouth" but few know any thing of its origin. It dates back to the time of the Tudor and Stuart reigns in England when apostle spoons were given as christening presents. These spoons, which were made with an image of one of the apostles on the end of the handle, were very expensive and within the reach of only the wealthiest families. This meant that only the children of the rich would receive such christening presents—hence the saying.—Path finder Magazine.

Colors Defy Reproduction

There are two colors, precious to French porcelain, which according to Literary Digest, are impossible of reproduction although German, Italian and even Chinese porcelain artists have worked since 1749 in an effort to duplicate them. The in vention of the great Heliot, they are the famous bleu turquoise and rose Pompadour.

20 Peaks 5,000 Feet High

There are in the Great Smoky park area more than 20 peaks which rise to a height of 5,000 feet. In climbing Mount Le Conte, 6,593 feet, one makes a path through a tangle of wild flowers and trees, ranging from common southern species at the foot to northern Canadian vari eties at the top. There are 565 kinds of flowering trees, shrubs and plants in the Great Smokies. The park contains 428,000 acres, some of it still occupied by settlers.—National Geographic Magazine.

Greek Culture in Old Egypt

Astonishing proof of the extent to which Greek culture and art had penetrated Egypt and Nile valley in the five centuries following the ac cession of Ptolemy I was unearthed at Hermopolis, where murals of Homeric legends were found. Sup porting this painted testimony is a series of small temples and tombs which, when cleared, showed a strange admixture of Greek archi tecture to the customary Egyptian forms.—Literary Digest.

A few reasons why Maine should Re-elect Governor LOUIS J. BRANN

He has been the Governor of ALL the People ALL the time, never stooping to politics during the entire course of his term.

First hand, he has gained knowledge of every community's needs in Maine.

By his insistence and leadership, giving full credit to a Republican legislature, he cut the cost of State Government $11,000,000.

To cut from Maine its only link with the National Administration at this stage of the game would be, without question, bad business. For instance, the $5,000,000 spent on Maine Roads this year was granted outright by Washington.

Elect Brann and keep the tax rate down....defeat him and watch it jump four or five mills. Figure the $5,000,000 road appropriation in terms of State taxes. The Federal Government, all in all, has put $107,000,000 into Maine during Brann's administration.

Re-elect Louis J. Brann governor because he has demonstrated his leadership, his honesty of purpose, his deep humanitarianism and has given Maine its first non-partisan administration in history.

A VOTE FOR BRANN IS A VOTE FOR CONTINUED PROSPERITY.

Elect F. Harold Dubord for Senator

Every citizen in Maine knows the necessity of teamwork between the National and State governments to conquer the depression and to secure the welfare of the individual and the revival of Maine industry. Maine must regain her prestige in Washington by vigorous support and cooperation with the Administration and not by endorsing the tactics of a small and obstructive minority.

The patriotic plans of the National Administration to legislate in the interests of non-partisanship Senator Hale has heartlessly opposed. Not one dollar of Federal Aid for Maine has been obtained by his assistance.

Senator Hale voted against:

The National Housing Act, to aid the home owner by providing assistance for repairs to property—an act of tremendous value to the lumber industry and to the building trades.

Hale voted against the Securities Control Act to wipe out unfair practices on the Stock Exchange.

Hale voted against the amendments to the Income Tax Law—allying himself with the moneyed interests.

Hale voted against the Monetary Gold Act, thereby imperiling the pulp and paper industry of Maine.

Hale voted against the Unemployment Relief program.

Hale voted against the Public Works program.

Hale has been a consistent opponent of all labor and welfare legislation. During eighteen years in the United States Senate he has voted against every forward-looking measure. He is out of step with the times. He is opposed to the Quoddy Project. It is time to end the seventy year reign of the Hale Dynasty and restore Opportunity to ability. The interests of the common man and woman demands the election of F. Harold Dubord as U. S. Senator.

Elect A Successful Dirt Farmer

Simon Moulton Hamlin, the Democratic nominee for Congress in the First District, is an outstanding educator and farmer, who enjoys the esteem and respect of the thousands of friends he has won in the First District.

Born in Standish in the First District in which he has resided almost all of his years, he was educated at Richville, Gorham Normal, Bridgton Academy, and graduated from Bowdoin College in the class of 1900.

Successively he taught school at Richville, Gorham, Standish, Raymond, Windham High School, Oxford, Greely Institute (Cumberland), South Portland and Bridgton Academy. He has been Superintendent of Schools of Cumberland, South Portland and Cape Elizabeth.

His public career includes service as City Clerk, South Portland, Member of the Board of Registration, South Portland; and Mayor of South Portland in 1933.

Simon Hamlin has succeeded in making his farm pay and is thoroughly familiar with every problem of the farmer and the business man of the districts. A sound, substantial citizen who will give the First District worthy representation.

"If 'Sim' were a Republican, we'd be inclined to support him, for we believe that Congress needs some good, old-fashioned New England 'boss' sense in these trying times."—Harry Shorey, Editor Bridgton News, Bowdoin Classmate.

Signed: Democratic State Committee Fred Lancaster, Chairman.

PROFITLESS PROSPERITY

Here are some facts for everybody to consider because they underlie the future earning power and employment foundation of the United States:

Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, second largest store in the world, sold $45,000,000 worth of drygoods and commodities in the first six months of 1934. That was a $10,000,000 increase over the first half of 1933. But it lost nearly $2,000,000 on the turn-over. The president of the company told its stockholders: "Our sales failed to increase to the extent necessary to cover the increased burden put on us by NRA and other national and local governmental agencies. During the second quarter our payroll was $1,088,000 more than a year ago and our taxes were $626,000 more."

Consolidated Gas Company of New York, one of the outstanding public utilities in the world, had gross revenues of $53,000,000 for the second quarter, practically the same as for a year ago. But profits per share of common stock dropped from $3 cents to 41 cents. This drop was caused wholly by the rise in the cost of doing business. For the first half of this year taxes and operating expenses were up 10.9% from last year. For the June quarter they were up 14.4%.

General Motors' quarterly report showed its three months' sales at $303,000,000, an increase of no less than $100,000,000 but wages and materials jumped even faster so that its three months' profit was actually $1,000,000 less than the same period in 1933.

Along with talk about new ways of taxing industry, soaking the investor and cutting the rates of public service companies and railroads, it is well to bear in mind that the rank and file of United States citizens depend upon industries for their jobs and they also depend upon them to make earnings on savings which they have invested in them.

We simply cut our own throats when we cut the throat of industry with destructive legislation and taxation and destroy its lifeblood of earnings.
